SUMMARY

An army barracks area, an extensive military training area, and a SA-2 site are located in the vicinity of Tedzhen (Figure 1).

The army barracks is located 4.4 kilometers (km) southeast of Tedzhen at 37-21N 060-32E.

The training area is located 18 km west-southwest of Tedzhen on the north side of the Trans-Caspian railway. The Tedzhen-Dushak road connects the training area with Tedzhen. Many secondary roads and tracks connect the training area with both Tedzhen and the army barracks.

The probably active SA-2 site is located 6.2 km southeast of Tedzhen and 2 km southeast of the army barracks at 37-19N 060-32E.

The army barracks covers approximately 750 acres and contains 3 administration buildings/messhalls, 6 multistory barracks, 4 possible barracks, 2 possible barracks/administration buildings, 62 officers/dependents quarters, 15 vehicle maintenance/storage buildings, 2 possible vehicle maintenance/storage buildings, a revetted ammunition storage building, 3 unrevetted probable ammunition storage buildings, 4 probable storage/support buildings, 48 support buildings, a motor vehicle park, an athletic field, and a tank/assault-gun firing range adjacent to the southwest edge of the barracks area.

The training area covers approximately 5,200 acres and contains 2 tank/assault-gun firing ranges, one of which is probably abandoned, a tracked-vehicle driving range, and an administration building, a storage building, and 12 range buildings (Figures 2 and 3).

The tank/assault-guns are probably moved by both rail and road between the barracks area and the training area. Considerable track activity parallels the railroad between Tedzhen and the training area, and a train with flatcars loaded with possible tank/assault-guns was observed on [ ] coverage between the town and the training area moving toward town.

This installation was covered by [ ]
